

HAER
NU,
4-DEPO,
2-

2.

HAER No. NY-124

NY-124-1	Photocopy of drawing showing pile superstructure of early railroad track construction. Original illustration in Degolyer Collection, Dallas, Texas
NY-124-2	Jack Boucher, photographer, July 1971. Scenic view along river showing Erie railroad line, taken from Rt. 97 at Hawks Nest, New York.
NY-124-3	Jack Boucher, photographer, July 1971. Scenic view along river showing Erie railroad line, taken from Rt. 97 at Hawks Nest, New York.
NY-124-4	Jack Boucher, photographer, April 1971. Aerial view of Erie railroad line and surrounding scenery .
NY-124-5	Jack Boucher, photographer, July (?) 1971. Typical scene along Erie right-of-way looking westbound at Gulf Summit, New York.
NY-124-6	Photocopy of drawing showing pile bridge construction on Erie Railway in 1841. Original illustration in DeGolyer Collection, Dallas, Texas.
NY-124-7	Photocopy of drawing showing internal construction of an icebreaker designed for a bridge at the first crossing of the Canisteo River, 1841. Original illustration in DeGolyer Collection, Dallas, Texas.
NY-124-8	Photocopy of top half of an 1855 organizational diagram of the New York and Erie Railroad. Original in the collections of the Library of Congress.
NY-124-9	Photocopy of bottom half of an 1855 organizational diagram of the New York and Erie Railroad. Original in the collections of the Library of Congress.